The American Red Cross provides local disaster relief, disaster prevention, preparedness and response education to the community, emergency communication to our deployed military personnel, and health and safety skills training to the greater Erie Community. All of the services provided are made possible through the generous support of volunteers and caring people in our community, like you.

The American Red Cross prevents and alleviates human suffering in the face of emergencies by mobilizing the power of volunteers and the generosity of donors.

The local chapter in Erie was established in 1917 to carry on the Red Cross mission. To learn more about our chapter and ways to support our mission, log onto www.RedCross.org/PA/Erie.
